Joint Pain

Arthritis, Osteoporosis, Spondylitis, Sciatica, Nerve Pain, Back Pain

Mrs D, who lived in Canada, had suffered with severe Rheumatoid arthritis for more than ten years, taking all sorts of painkillers, had been given the maximum dose of steroids to suppress her immune system, and this was impacting on her liver. It was so bad that she could hardly walk. She was tired all the time, and just wanted to live a normal life, without using high dosage of medication.

She called me when I was in Los Angeles and when I told her that I would need to check her pulse, she said she couldn't travel to meet me because her feet were so swollen and her joints so stiff that she could barely move around the house.

It was evident to me that she had a high level of Ama, toxic swelling, so I said that the best thing to do was to fast, to start with ginger water—a glass of hot water with a teaspoon of fresh root ginger and drink this every time she was hungry, this would burn up the toxins and give her energy. Also she could apply a warm mix of ginger and flour and water to any place on her body where there was swelling, to let it dry and then remove it with warm water. She did this two to three times a day.

In addition, she took castor oil, a tablespoon in hot water, because it removes Ama and Vata toxins from the stool. Excess Vata goes into the spaces in the joints and causes stiffness and pain, discomfort, low flexibility, and wherever Ama accumulates in the body it causes a very thick, mucus filled, inflammation. Through fasting alone, all these things can be greatly alleviated. For the next three to four days I told her to eat only mung and vegetable soups, as well as continuing with ginger water. Through following this regime, in only three or four days, the swelling diminished by around fifty per cent. In ten days she was flexible enough to fly to see me in Los Angeles. I checked her pulse and she had severe rheumatoid arthritis.

I gave her a strict regimen of eating only mung and vegetable soup for five days a month: no wheat, nothing fried, no red meat, no yogurt or other fermented foods. All of these kinds of food cause inflammation in the body. On top of that no salad, no beans, because they are gas-creating foods, and too much gas also causes stiffness in the joints.

Generally at Ayushakti we can treat such problems with herbal remedies such as Painmukti, Sandhiyog and Sandhical together with diet, but in her case her illness was so chronic and deep that I told her to come to India for Panchakarma. The lady who couldn't move out of her house found the energy and capacity to fly to India, by following my instructions. We gave her a very severe Panchakarma treatment with Virechan and Basti, to remove all the toxins in the body, moving them into the digestive tract, and then with specific enemas and purgation processes removing them completely.

When these toxins had been expelled from her system we gave her specific process for building up her bony structures, and she became stronger and stronger. Because of the Panchakarma the toxins had been removed and her metabolism was now stronger, so that nutrients were now being well absorbed, and calcium was absorbed into her bones. Two to three years later she no longer needed herbs, and her ten years of suffering were over.

Guidance for the Relief of Joint Pain: Including Sciatica, Stiffness and Swelling, Nerve Pain, Neck and Back Pain

Diet

Joint pain, swelling and stiffness are the direct result of the increased movement of Vata (air) in the body. A moderated diet which decreases Vata can help to relieve these conditions.

Avoid foods which increase Vata

Wheat and all wheat products, yoghurt/curd (dahi), tamarind (imli) and tomatoes, oily food, raw salad, red meat and fermented food like idli, dosa, gas-forming pulses like kidney beans (rajma), chickpeas, dry peas, white bean. Chilled water, aerated drinks, cold milk, ice cream and all cold food and drink. Vata is cold and warming foods/drinks counterbalance.

All of these foods, if eaten regularly, lead to an increase in Vata which can decrease digestive power, ultimately producing toxins.

Avoid red meat—occasionally eat chicken and turkey, eggs and sometimes seafood.

Eat more foods which pacify or reduce Vata, such as:

Grains and pulses: brown and white rice, Amaranth and rye, millet, mung beans, red and yellow lentils.

Vegetables: most; particularly root and green leafy vegetables. Always eat cooked vegetables rather than raw.

Spices and herbs which stimulate Agni and are warming without aggravating Pitta like: Ginger powder, Garlic, Clove, Cinnamon, Black pepper, Cumin, Cardamom.

Fruits: All sweet fruits including avocado, apricot, sweet grapes, sweet apple, pears, fresh figs and dates, berries.

Other foods: Use honey, jaggery (palm sugar or slow-grown sweet syrups like Molasses, date syrup, agave). Ghee—use freely as it carries qualities of other foods deep into tissues and detoxifies, butter and organic milk.

Soaked nuts—favour almonds and Brazil nuts. Avoid peanuts, and eat other nut butters a couple of times a week.

Calcium. You should also ensure a daily intake of at least 1200 mg of calcium rich foods such as the following.

Food source

Qty in g

Amaranth grain	100 g contains 47 mg of calcium
Dried curry leaves	100 g contains 830 mg of calcium (to make a paste or chutney and add to food)
Sesame seeds	100 g contains 975 mg of calcium (you can use 100 g paste from sesame and in the soup or like a spread)
Cumin seed powder	100 g contains 930 mg of calcium (cumin mixed with jaggery enhances calcium intake from cumin)
Poppy seeds	100 g contains 1438 mg of calcium (soaked 100 g poppy seeds made into paste can be used to make gravy of vegetables instead of using crème)
Milk	100 g contains 125 mg of calcium
Spinach	1 cup boiled spinach contains 245 mg of calcium

Recipes to improve daily calcium intake

1. Sesame Balls: Total calcium 150 mg each ball

Sesame seeds	50 g
Dates (seedless and chopped)	x 2
Almonds	15 g
Jaggery	35 g
Cardamom powder	1 pinch

Roast and crush sesame seeds and almonds. Grate or cut jaggery into small pieces, add a little water and cook to softball stage. Add crushed sesame and almonds, then add chopped dates and cardamom powder. Mix well and remove from heat. Take teaspoonful and roll into balls. Store in fridge and have 1-2 daily.

2. Sesame Coriander Chutney/Spread: Total calcium—202 mg

Sesame seeds	15 g
Cumin seed	2 pinch
Dry kokum/mangosteen	x 2
Pomegranate powder	1 tsp
Green chilli (optional)	x 2
Coriander leaves	20 gm
Curry leaves	1 sprig
Root ginger (grated)	½ tsp
Mint leaves	1 sprig
Rock salt as per taste

Roast sesame and cumin seeds. Chop ginger and chilli. Wash the curry, coriander and mint leaves. Put all ingredients into a blender and grind until it turns into a chutney. You can use it like spread on crackers or chappatis.

3. A calcium rich sauce for vegetables - total calcium 300 mg

Sesame seeds	10 g
Poppy seeds	10 g
Red pumpkin/butternut squash	5 g
Onion	10 g
Kokum / dried mangosteen	5 g
Ginger/garlic paste	1 tsp
Coriander powder	¼ tsp
Cumin powder	½ tsp
Red chilli powder (optional)	1 tsp
Turmeric powder	2 pinches
Garam masala	¼ tsp
Whole gram flour	10 g
Ghee
Salt to taste

Soak the poppy seeds and sesame seeds for half an hour, blend and boil to a runny paste. Heat the ghee in a pan and saute garlic/ginger paste. Add all the other ingredients with the poppy/sesame seed mixture till it becomes light brown. Add cooked vegetables of your choice to this sauce.

Lifestyle

- 30-45 minutes of daily exercise such as walking and swimming makes a great difference.
- Practice Pranayama and Anulom-Vilom (alternate nostril breathing) with the help of a yoga teacher.

Further recommendations:

- Avoid over-exertion
- Avoid frequent late nights
- Learn to diminish the effects of worry, grief and fear, perhaps through meditation.

Home remedies

- Drinking one teaspoon of castor oil with warm ginger water before going to sleep is a very effective way of keeping joint pain and arthritis at bay.
- Juiced white radish leaves (daikon radish) in the morning, during winter months

Home remedy for pain relief

Turmeric (haldi) powder	1 tsp
Dry ginger (sunthi) powder	¼ tsp
Ajwain powder (wild celery)	¼ tsp
Asafoetida (hing)	1 pinch
Fenugreek seed powder (methi)	½ tsp
Coriander seed powder dhania	1 tsp
Garlic juice	½ tsp

Mix all these with water and take twice a day. In cases of severe pain take it three times a day, or as often as necessary.

Joint pain in old age

This type of pain is not necessarily due to arthritis, but general wear and tear over time.

1. Take 4 tsp of ground sesame seeds daily.
2. 100 g rajigro—amaranth grain, per day.
3. Dry ginger powder (sunthi)

¼ cup
Fenugreek seed powder (methi)	2 tblsp
Ghee	2 tblsp
Jaggery	½ cup

Mix the ingredients well and make into half inch diameter balls. Store them in the fridge. Eat one ball each daily in the morning. This helps with back pain, spondylosis and muscular pain.
